

Summary Report for Lucy Mata (AZ34H9)

Your Grid

* Interest (What you want to achieve in life)

Red: You like getting directly involved with people and situations. A good day is one where you have been in the thick of things.

◆ Usual (What you expect of yourself)

Blue: You probably operate in a pretty intuitive manner, sensing where things should go without necessarily being able to explain why at first; you expect yourself to focus on what could be, rather than get bogged down in what is. Some people might wish you could work on execution rather than ideation on occasion.

● Need (What you expect of others around you)

Yellow: You need time to think and reflect and to plan your communications with others. Your expectation of others is that they think before they act; you definitely don't want to find yourself being pushed into premature or rash action.

■ Stress (Your unconscious, counter productive reactions when your needs are not met)

Yellow: You may become so low-key in saying what you think that others struggle to decode what you are saying; fail to act or decide in a timely manner when under pressure; and bottle things up to the extent that when you do finally express yourself there is a lot of anger or emotion.

Your Focus

Red - Practical, Technical and Operational Tasks

You are most satisfied by the opportunity to get things done, especially if that means working with tools and technology or taking a practical, hands-on approach to things. Knowing that you have solved a complicated technical problem or seeing a stack of finished product ready to ship is likely to give you a buzz.
